TO MEASURE JONES CO. FARMS

We are starting the measuring of farms who are qualifying under the terms of the 1936 Agricultural Conservation Program, this week, and will measure only farms who have indicated by card that they are qualifying under the farm program. We would appreciate the full cooperation of the operators when the supervisors measure and map their farm, as the supervisor will need information on the locality of the plats of the farm and what disposition has been made of the crops or will be made of them.

The following is a list of the school districts and measuring supervisors.

District One is composed of Carlton, Dovie, Flat Top, Hamlin, Hanna, Lakota, Plainview, Tuxedo and Wise Chapel communities, with R. B. Green, A. G. Hester and A. Branscum, as supervisors.

District Two is composed of Anderson Chapel, Anson, Boyds Chapel, Neinda, Pleasant Hill and Sinclair communities, with F. L. Wod, D. W. Crumpler and A. J. Dean as supervisors.

District Three is composed of Carpenters Gap, Compere, Cross Roads, Golan, Goodman, Truby, Union and Worren communities, with J. Spurgeon Reeves, C. D. Sampson and L. E. C. Boyd as supervisors.

District Four is composed of Avoca, New Hope, Pleasant Valley, Stamford, Sunny Side and Swenson communities, with O. S. Plumlee, Joe Ford and H. Young as supervisors.

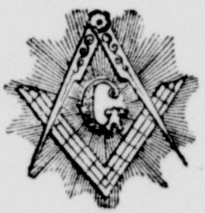

District Five is composed of Antelope, Bumpass Hill, Corinth, Harmony, Lueders, New Light, Nugent, Oak Grove, Swans Chapel and Wilson communities with V. L. Martin, J. H. Doty as supervisors.

District Six is composed of Centerline, Central, Delk, Hawley, Hollis Hill, Marts, Midway, Stith, Turners Chapel and Willow Creek communities, with Phil Jefferies, Wm. I. Burton and C. F. Simpson, as supervisors.

Yours very truly,
TOM LEE EASLEY,
Asst. in Agri. Cons.

METHODIST PASTOR IN PULPIT SUNDAY

From reports given, the services during the month of August have been very interesting both as to variety and quality. It seems that the women are willing to say that the men had the best service of all, last Sunday at 11:00 A. M. but they held more services than the men. Thanks a lot for the fine spirit and good services had in my absence.

The meetings held were not conspicuous for the numbers who were converted, so much as the fine response from the church membership. The meeting at Baird resulted in a greater response on the part of the church than the one at McCaulley, but the people at each place were grateful for the lift spiritually in their church life.

As we shift into the fall work each department of the church will find a "Door of Opportunity" confronting them. May we be enabled by God's Grace to meet our obligations and see our desires realized by progress in each department. My task is no less difficult than others but with a prayer and a smile we will dare the "second mile."

Sunday, 11:00 A. M., "Three Viewpoints of Life." 8:00 P. M., "God Rejoices in Our Success." League service at 7:30 P. M. Three Sundays and our Sunday School year closes. Be on hand Sunday at 9:45 and let's close out the year in "High." "Trailers Have No Power."

H. A. LONGINO, Pastor.

MR. AND MRS. HOYLE GILLIS THANK PEOPLE FOR HELP

Mrs. Hoyle C. Gillis was a visitor at the Herald office Tuesday to have published the deep appreciation of herself and her husband to the people of Neinda, of McCaulley and other communities for the liberal way their needs have been met following the burning of their home on Tuesday, August 25. Mrs. Gillis said that her neighbors and friends had been so kind, sympathetic and liberal that they could never forget them.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillis' house was on one of the W. W. Shield's places east of McCaulley and their household goods were lost when they were not at home. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

One of the gracious responses of the people was a shower given at McCaulley on Saturday following the burn, at which time nearly every article of housekeeping use was contributed.

DROUGHT EFFECTS COTTONSEED YIELD

When one figures on the effect of drought on farm products, there is no end to the showing made.

For example take cotton seed. Last year the seasons were fairly good and the yield of cotton, the quality of cotton and the oil content of the seed was about normal.

In 1935 a ton of cotton seed in this country produced a little better than 300 pounds of oil.

In 1936, according to a recent analysis, a ton of seed will produce but a little over 200 pounds of oil.

In 1935 cotton seed were sold by the farmer around $35 and $36 per ton, and this year the price is starting around $33 per ton.

When we figure the amount of oil produced this year compared with that of last year, assuming that the market value of oil is 9 cents per pound it means that the oil value is about $9.00 less than if the seed were producing 300 pounds or better. The conclusion is that the drought is not only effecting the value of seed, but the amount and quality of lint.

Seed could have been worth around $40 or more under normal conditions. As it is the meal value and hulls are not far different from that of a seasonable year. Less rain less the number and size of the boll—less rain less the size of the seed and the lighter the seed. The whole thing circles around the rain fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Buford Dean were greeted September 8, by a big fine seven pound daughter, Nancy Jane, who promises to grow up and be a regular customer of the dry goods department where her father is head salesman and maybe she can soon be interested in ready-to-wear also at Bryant-Link Co.

RULE'S "RULE REVIEW"

On Aug. 28, Editor Harris, wife and son, placed an unusually good Anniversary Edition of their paper before the people of the Rule community—celebrating 30 years of Rule's organization. The edition carried 32 good pages and proved a credit to the town and the publishers.

NUDITY: We have reached the "Nude Age," it seems. For many years the lines between plenty of clothing and none at all have narrowed and in many instances there is not even a "line" left. To attract attention, there must be a great percentage of "Nudity," according to what one sees in most magazines, in most shows, and on some streets. Maybe the time will come when nudity ceases to attract, and then what?

This week we noticed in one certain prominent magazine an advertisement of a brand of soap, or skin treatment. There was a nude woman to illustrate. This, to the finer qualities of the decent must be repulsive. But as long as there is no protest there will be more and more daring nudity to attract attention. Yes, we all perk up our eyes and look and peep. Why not? But the point is that it is a damaging manner of advertising. If 100,000 Texas women would write that company in question, firmly saying that they will not patronize or purchase that brand of skin lotion because of a vulgar picture to call attention to the article—it would make for more decency in their advertising. If we shut our eyes to everything and say nothing there will be no lines between decency and vulgarity. That is almost true now.

IT'S FUNNY

ONLY ONCE!

To all those who want to qualify as the life of the party, who wish to be known as droll fellows, irrepressible clowns, or mad wags, who are anxious to fascinate mixed audiences with the rapturic quality of their wit—the following words of advice, presented by Robert E. Sherwood in the Rotarian Magazine, are offered: "Don't ever start off any story with the introduction, 'It seems—' 'Don't ever confess that you are reminded of an anecdote—"

"Don't ever explain that the joke you are about to tell is funny. That is a contention which is always extremely hard to prove.

"Don't ever repeat a nifty that you heard in a musical revue. Its presence there is a guarantee of its age.

"Don't ever tell dialect stories.

"Don't ever assume that a joke which has been told effective by Irvin S. Cobb will sound funny when recounted by you. A man's joke, like his toothbrush, is his own exclusive property.

"Don't ever follow up a humorous climax by digging your victim in the ribs.

"And above all things—

"Don't ever preface your remarks with 'Stop me if you've heard this one.' It is an utter waste of words: (a) because the chances are 100 to 1 that your listeners have heard that one, and (b) because they all know perfectly well that it would be useless for them to say so. The persistent joke-teller will never be stopped by anything short of a millennium."—Rotarian Magazine.

WANT TO LIVE LONG?

THEN WATCH DIET AND EXERCISE WHEN FIFTY

The "forgotten man" of medical science, is the man who has reached middle age, according to Dr. Lucas A. Miller, Colorado physician.

"More middle-aged men commit suicide by overeating than by overwork," he says in the Rotarian Magazine. "With the aged, a single gastronomic excess may be fatal. Somebody has truly said that the greatest menace to the health of an old man is too good a cook.

"It is estimated that 20 millions of people in the United States alone are living near or below the borderline of nutritional safety. Expert advice is necessary in the rationing of dependent peoples. Unfortunately, many of the cheapest, most satisfying foods, fail to provide the necessary vitamins: potatoes, for instance, the basic food of so many families. The dangers of the more modern diet are too much starches and sugars, too much animal protein, too little fruit, milk, vegetables, and whole grains.

"There is grave danger in following diets or changing food-habits, too suddenly, after 50. After someone who has devoted years of study to the subject helps you to find your nutritional balance, you should stick to it religiously, no matter what facetious friends or family may say. It isn't easy, but it can be done.

"Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Sr., cites as an example, 'with every temptation that wealth can suggest, has lived rigorously for years. At 57, he can say, 'I am grateful every day for the contentment I find in living a quiet and simple life.'

"Next in importance after the proper diet," continues Dr. Miller, "is the budgeting of energy. Failure to recuperate quickly after the strenuous exertion is a danger signal. There is a let-down of energy at 50, and another at 60. It is sheer folly to overdraw a dwindling account. This does not imply that the ageing man should live in idleness. Doing nothing is bad for anyone and it is particularly bad for the old. But one of advanced years should never work or play to the point of exhaustion. The strain on vital organs should be reduced and balance restored by frequent rest."—From Rotarian Magazine.

THE ABILITY FAMILY

THE best neighbors I ever had were the Ability family. There were eight in the present family, one child died young. The father's name was Reliability, the mother's Responsibility. They were each well named. The father had the respect and confidence of all he met in business—people, even strangers, felt him to be trustworthy. The mother played her part, too; after visiting her household, one could be assured that she carried her part of the home making for her husband and their six children, adding more duties each day to her already full program. Her name was Responsibility and she lived up to it. One would naturally expect a strong family of children from such parents, and such was the case.

Their first child, who grew to be strong and stalwart, they named Respectability. He was an upright chap. He thought well of himself and justly so, for he lived persistently at his best.

The second child was named Stability, for at an early age he evidenced decided firmness of character. He was sure footed and steady as a rock. His opinions were always real convictions to him.

After a few years passed another child was born to this interesting family, not as strong in health as the first two children, but patient unto long endurance, with never a word of complaint. This child was calm and often silent with an inner reserve and strength that won from his friends great admiration and love. His parents called him Durability.

The fourth child was a joy to its mother. Nothing ever seemed to go wrong when this little fellow was about. Everyone loved him as he grew up, because he was thinking constantly of others. He would change his plans to accommodate others if need be. Unselfishness was his watchword. His name was Adaptability.

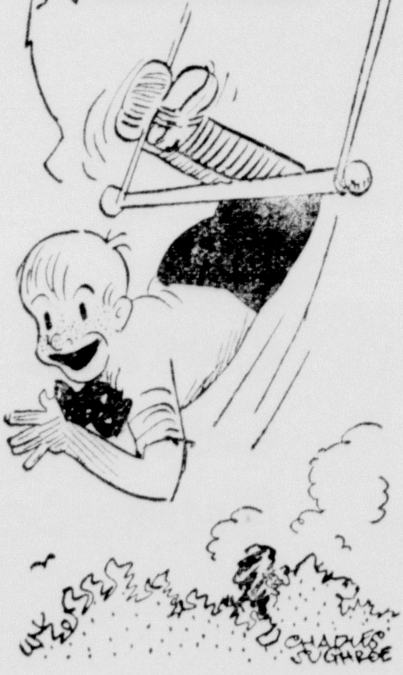

One child died young. Peevish and ill-tempered, he grew quite apart from the family traits. His name was Irritability. He was too unhappy to live long.

After the death of Irritability the Ability family was again augmented by two, when the twins came. Happy, good natured, lovable pair of youngsters they were. They brought sunshine and joy wherever they went. Everybody agreed that they should be called Affability and Comptability!

So this is the Ability family. How many of them have you met in your circle of friends? Do you wonder the name of this family was ABILITY?

NATIONAL BANKS GAIN

American Bankers Association
Gives Details of Banking
Institutions and Notes
Stronger Condition

NEW YORK.—Continued improvement in the condition of state chartered banking institutions, with an increase of more than three billion dollars in a year in total resources, is shown in a report just issued by the State Bank Division of the American Bankers Association.

The report was prepared by the division's Committee on State Bank Research from data furnished by state banking departments and parallels data issued by the Comptroller of the Currency for national banks which show similar improvements.

"The combined resources of 10,473 state supervised banks were $35,724,728,000 as of December 31, 1935," the state bank report says. "Total deposits amounted to $30,526,920,000. Total loans and discounts stood at $12,430,404,000 and total investments were $14,170,421,000."

A year previous, tables in the report show, there were 10,644 state supervised banks, with combined resources of $32,880,203,000, total deposits $27,297,959,000, loans and discounts $13,060,033,000 and investments $12,532,325,000.

Classes of Institutions

Of the reporting state banking institutions on December 31, 1935, 82% were commercial banks, the report states, 9% trust companies, almost 9% stock and mutual savings banks and less than 1% were private banks. The report adds:

"The parallel upward movements of deposits and total invested funds of total state supervised banks during the years 1934 and 1935, after declines in these items in 1932 and 1933, are indications of definite steps toward recovery in banking.

"Based on figures assembled for total state supervised banks on resources and liabilities as of December 31, 1931 to 1935, it is noted: (1) that deposits in 1935 rose approximately 12 per cent over the previous year, as compared with an increase of about 9 per cent in 1934 over the year 1933, and declines of 7 per cent and 12 per cent in 1933 and 1932, respectively, from the preceding years of 1932 and 1931; and (2) that total invested funds increased by approximately 2 per cent in 1935 and also in 1934, while they had decreased by 9 per cent in 1933 and by 11 per cent in 1932."

Analysis Shows Stronger Position

In a survey and analysis of earnings and expenses of state banks doing a commercial business, it is brought out that in a majority of states they have increased their earning ability during 1935. On the basis of data covering 7,928 banks in 42 states, the report says:

"The most significant fact to be pointed out is that new profits of state banks—after deducting charge-offs on loans, investments, etc., and adding recoveries—were shown in 37 of the 42 states which reported in 1935, in comparison with net profits in only 11 of the 35 states reporting in 1934. Measured in terms of dollars per each $100 of invested funds, net profits in 1935 ranged between $2.40 and $1.10 per $100, with 19 states showing profits of $1.00 or over, per $100; while in 1934 net profits did not exceed $1.20 per $100 and only three states showed profits of $1.00, or over."

The report contains voluminous tables showing the resources and liabilities of all classes of state chartered institutions and detailed analyses of earnings and expenses by states and of insured commercial state banks grouped by size of banks.

Bankers Help Farmers

The conviction that 4-H club work lays the foundation for sound citizenship and intelligent farming influenced a New York City bank executive to contribute $500 to the Agricultural Committee of the State Bankers Association, to further 4-H Club activities in the state. "I am convinced that the work is so worthy, and is being so well handled that it should interest those who believe in building sound citizenship, as well as intelligent farming for the future," he said.

Unusual prominence was given this past year to agricultural work by the Tennessee Bankers Association. The Agricultural Committee report reveals hearty cooperation between bankers and extension workers. "Key bankers and county agents have been in closer contact than ever before," it says.

Georgia banks have given both moral and financial backing to a Marketing Project sponsored by the Extension Service of the College of Agriculture, and activities the past year showed significant results. The phases of the Marketing program emphasized in the year's work are: The retail market; roadside marketing; miscellaneous marketing (suited to the locality); bartering (exchange of commodities or services with neighbors); standardized canned products for sale prepared in homes or canning centers.

LEARNING ABOUT COWS

While visiting the International Harvester exhibit at the Texas Centennial exposition, this happy group of Texas Rangerettes watched with interest the lifelike actions of Harvester's famous mechanical cow, made as nearly perfect as human ingenuity will permit. The cow moves its head and ears, blinks its eyes, chews its cud, swishes its tail, breathes, moos, and actually gives milk.

JOHN T. DAY & SON

"THE HOME OF THE FARMALL

AND INTERNATIONAL TRUCKS"

(By Cecil Baugh)

Texas rightfully belongs to Spain, was once larger than the United States, has had at least 19 flags, and at one time duped the American Government to the extent of $10,000,000.00 by selling it a big tract of land over which Texas had never maintained any control.

These and a thousand more queer facts about Texas are included, and explained, in a unique new 128-page cartoon book, ODD TEXAS, written and compiled by Jack Harper and John Newbern of Dallas.

"All the queer and amazing facts about wild and woolly Texas," screams the red, white, and blue jacket of this cloth-bound volume. Wild and woolly, queer and amazing it is.

According to Harper and Newbern—who boast in their preface that canards are loathsome to them, you'll find in Texas horses with hoofs as big around as dinner plates, islands on top of a mountain, a river in which cattle stand up to their necks and bawl for water, houses of cactus plants, rattlesnake steaks, streaks of lightning made of sand, five pound hailstones.

If you had been there when it happened, you could have seen 1,000 horses shot down in cold blood by U. S. soldier, turkeys roasted with the feathers on, roads full of stumps a foot high, trains on wooden rails, human ears as gifts, quinine served like salt and pepper, or you could have gotten a wagon load of choice steaks—free!

Texas Indians come in for full attention in this Texas hodge-podge of fancy illustrations. They had some peculiar habits, such as killing girl babies, traveling a hundred miles or more to get the right kind of cactus for eating purposes, selling Indian beauties for a bow and two arrows and cutting off the noses of unfaithful wives. America's only cannibal Indians lived in Texas.

Sugar-coated Texas is the forte of ODD TEXAS. Something unusual has been squeezed from every important event in Texas history, engagingly illustrated and tantalizingly worded.

For instance: The battle of San Jacinto lasted just 18 minutes and the only artillery used by the Texans were two cannons donated by the citizens of Cincinnati, Ohio. The first official act of the Texas Rangers after their organization was the capturing of a Mexican boat anchored on the Texas coast. The defenders of the Alamo fought under a Mexican flag and James Bowie fought the battle from his bed!

At Goliad Fannin requested (before he was shot) that his watch be sent to his wife, that he be shot in the breast and that he be given a Christian burial. A Mexican lieutenant stole his watch, he was shot in the head, and his body was left where it fell.

The capital of Texas has been located in thirteen different places, two of them in Mexico and one in Louisiana.

To impress you with the size of the State and its resources, you're states could be put inside of Texas with room to spare, that the state told by ODD TEXAS that 14 other is larger than the entire Japanese empire.

Texas produces 97 per cent of the nation's sulphur, 90 per cent of America's polo ponies, nearly one third of the cotton and oil of the United States and practically all of the helium in the world.

There are literally hundreds of such items as the cow that gave birth to a heifer calf each February 4 for three consecutive years (this ain't no bull, either), the cowboy who beheaded himself with his own lariat trying to rope a steer, and the bird that is half duck and half buzzard.

For further information, you'll have to see the book. We warn you, ODD TEXAS is a volume you can't put down, once you pick it up, so after you start looking you'll have to shell out your dollar and take it home with you.

We are having fine weather here now. It has not been over 84 degrees since I've been here but it does rain all winter—I guess that is about the only draw-back to this country. It certainly is beautiful and has lots of fine qualities but I'll take Texas in preference, any old day.

Curiosa Americana

By Elmo Scott Watson

Lights Out!

IF THE lights in a convention hall hadn't gone out when they did, James G. Blaine might have been President of the United States.

It happened in Cincinnati in 1876. When the Republican national convention opened, Blaine was the outstanding candidate for the nomination. Although he was short of the necessary majority on the first six ballots, on the seventh ballot he had the votes of 351 delegates, almost enough to win the nomination.

It was growing late and the lights were turned on—gas jets, for this was before the day of the electric light. The Blaine men were hurrying the vote, expecting to put their candidate over on the next ballot.

Then suddenly the lights went out and the business of the convention was suspended while the management of the hall tried to locate the trouble. The Blaine men were frantic. Finally the superintendent of the gas works announced that the trouble couldn't be located. So the only thing to do was to adjourn until the next day.

When the delegates reconvened, the anti-Blaine forces had rallied and united on Rutherford B. Hayes, who was nominated. In the much-disputed election of 1876 he defeated Samuel J. Tilden, the Democratic nominee, and went to the White House. It might have been "Blaine of Maine" who went there, if the lights in Cincinnati hadn't gone out that night.

THE COLD GERM .. IS WAITING FOR YOUR DEFENSE TO BE LOWERED!

Don't give a "common cold" an even break! The fact that this is good advice is emphasized by the report of leading doctors who point out that fifty per cent of all disabling diseases start with a "common cold."

It is well known that sudden chilling of the body after overheating will often cause sneezing, watery secretions or nasal obstruction. Of this, there can be no doubt from the experience of generations of people everywhere. Any sudden change in bodily temperature during winter months such as going from a warm room into a cold one disturbs the heat regulating apparatus of the body and lowers your defense against the insidious attack of the cold germ.

If you heat only one or two rooms . . . if you "huddle" in these warm rooms while the rest of the house remains cold, sudden indoor temperature changes are unavoidable. It's good health insurance as well as good advice to provide adequate heat and a proper circulation of pure warm air in every room of your home during the coming winter months.

LONE STAR GAS SYSTEM

Soon the cold germ will marshal his forces for his health wrecking winter attack.

If you should catch cold, consult your family doctor before it has an opportunity to undermine your health.

THE RETURN OF THE FAMILY ALTAR

Most of us believe that a great deal of the strength and influence of the spiritual life of our homes was sacrificed when the old-time family altar was abandoned. And, believing this to be true, church leaders are now endeavoring to revive daily family devotions in every home in every church community. And since good homes are the foundation of good citizenship, these efforts to lift the spiritual life of the home are receiving a responsive, nation-wide cooperation.

Efforts along this line are being made especially by the evangelistic agencies of the Methodist churches of America. The Methodist effort toward a revival of the home devotional life is being centered about the use of a quarterly devotional periodical, THE UPPER ROOM, which contains for each day of the quarter a scripture reading and a meditation and prayer written by an outstanding religious writer. It is practical for use in any home for daily devotions. Anyone can take an active part in this effort merely by buying a copy of the current issue of THE UPPER ROOM at five cents from any of the local Methodist pastors.

THE UPPER ROOM is being published for the good it can accomplish and not for profit.

FISHER CO. WOMEN IMPROVE ROOMS

Millie Drennan, bedroom demonstrator for McCaulley 4-H Girls Club, won first place in the county. Millie took pictures of her room before making any changes and after completing the work, took pictures to show the improvements made. In telling story of her work she said, "I did not enjoy my club work last year, because as co-operator, I was not as interested in my work as I have been this year.

"I made a turkish and crash towel, a cushion for my desk chair, upholstered my rocker, and five cushions for a wicker suite. I made a comfort and comfort protector for my bed, springs, mattress and pillow protectors, and I added a slat for every row of coils in the springs.

"My closet needed shelves for my hats and linens and Daddy lowered the rod, placed a shelf above the rod and three shelves across the end of the closet for linens and covers. I made hat racks out of coat hangers and a shoe rack from two old broom handles and the ends of an apple box. I papered the closet, painted the rod, shelves and shoe rack.

"We removed the coal heater that had been in my room and, since the walls were badly smoked, my sister and I papered the room. I washed the woodwork in my room and varnished the floor and linoleum rug. The windows have weights in them so I may raise them any height I wish. I enjoy my room much more now and I believe I like the study center better than anything in my room."

—4-H—

Mrs. W. K. Jones, bedroom demonstrator for the McCaulley Home Demonstration Club, has leveled the floors in her house and added three double windows, built a north bedroom and added a front porch. New screens for the windows and doors have been added and two glass doors have been added so that more light could be obtained. Built-in cabinets have been added across the west side of the kitchen.

Mrs. Jones is removing the calcimine from the walls of the bedroom and will paint them. Several coats of paint have to be removed from the woodwork before it can be refinished, and a filler used before the windows are finished. Shelves and rods are to be added in two storage spaces and a closet built in the north bedroom. The furniture in the bedroom will be renovated before her Achievement Program in October.

—4-H—

Ruby Jean Young, second place winner in the County Bedroom Contest, is bedroom demonstrator in the Swedonia 4-H Girls Club. Before Ruby Jean became bedroom demonstrator she shared a room with other members of the family. She took a small room 9x11 feet and it was too small to place a closet in but since this room joined the bathroom, which had a large closet across the end of the room, a partition was placed in the closet and a door opening into the bedroom gave sufficient storage for her.

The walls had been calcimined in blue but were faded and streaked, therefore the room was papered in a washable paper of dainty design. The floor is hardwood but badly worn and scarred. It was cleaned with gasoline, washed, rinsed and smoothed, and then varnished with a clear varnish and waxed.

The old shades were replaced with new ones that had pulls on them and added weights to the windows in order that they might be raised any height. New dotted swiss curtains were hung at the windows.

There was a double bed in the room, which left little space for other furniture, and it was traded for a half bed. A slat was added for every row of coils in the springs and protectors were made for the springs, mattress, pillows and covers.

The old finish was removed from the dresser and refinished and a straight chair was refinished and cushions made for it.

"I am very glad I was chosen bedroom demonstrator for my club for I have a lovely room that I am proud to call my own. I shall not only enjoy my room but I have learned many things that will mean a great deal to me in the future."

—EVELYN JENNINGS,
Co. H. D. Agent.

SADLER'S CIRCUS COMING SEPT. 24

Did you ever see a mother weighing 8,000 pounds and a baby weighing 250 pounds? Residents of Hamlin and vicinity will have the opportunity of witnessing this unusual sight on Thursday, Sept. 24, when "Big Vera" and "Mary," mother and baby elephants come to town with the Harley Sadler Circus. Harley Sadler this season has forsaken the dramatic tent theatre and is with his all new circus. He has assembled this season a circus of standard attractions, featuring performers from many countries. All equipment is new, and many new and novel ideas are being carried into effect. The show is presented "Jumbo" style, as given at the Ft. Worth Centennial and every act is a feature act. There are many strange specimens of the animal world carried by the circus, equine and canine stars. The quality of a Harley Sadler show is well known throughout Texas, and Harley Sadler has devoted the same care in the selection of his circus acts and programs as he did in his dramatic show. He is bringing it to Hamlin on Thursday, Sept. 24, at popular prices, and a large crowd is expected to turn out to see this new type of circus. As a special feature, he is making it possible for all children to see the matinee at greatly reduced prices.

HOW THE BANKS AID THE GOVERNMENT

Normal and Emergency Needs
Met by Advances of Commercial Banking Credit

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — The American commercial banking credit system is an absolute essential in the financial operations of business and government, Harold G. Moulton, President of the Brookings Institution of Washington, D. C., said here recently in an address before the Graduate School of Banking conducted under the joint auspices of Rutgers University and the American Bankers Association.

If the flexibility and expansibility provided by commercial banking credit were eliminated, Dr. Moulton declared, "it is scarcely too much to say that the economic system itself would shortly be destroyed."

"Normally the amount of credit extended by commercial banks to the government is small in amount and for the purpose mainly of financing temporary requirements in anticipation of tax collections or bond sales. But in periods of war and acute depression, when the financial requirements of government expand with great rapidity, the expansion of commercial bank credit is on a tremendous scale. Such is the case at the present time."

How Public Needs Are Financed

"The purchase of government securities by individuals and by the commercial banks provides the government with the means by which its manifold activities are financed. The Treasury obtains the funds, with which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other government credit agencies finance their operations through the sale of securities, largely to commercial banks. These funds, in turn, have gone to the assistance of distressed banks and other financial institutions, to aid industrial and agricultural enterprises to finance new public and private capital construction, and to provide relief to the unemployed."

Dr. Moulton declared that it is not true that the world depression was caused by a breakdown of the American banking system "which did not, in fact, occur until the depression had been under way for more than three years."

He added: "Nor is it true that the world maladjustments existing in 1929 can be explained simply by undue extensions of commercial banking credit in the preceding years. These maladjustments involved world agricultural, industrial, commercial and financial relations."

FARM ACCOUNTING REVEALS LESSONS

Principles of Sound Business Management That Apply to All Farms

An analysis made of detailed records kept by a group of Wisconsin farms revealed several important lessons and the principles of sound business management derived from them apply equally well to other farms, says an article in the Bulletin of the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association. The article says: "Investment costs, including interest, depreciation, repairs, taxes and insurance, are approximately two-thirds of all farm costs. Furthermore, these costs are largely independent of the production program of the farm."

"This means that if a farmer cuts his production of crops or livestock he increases his investment costs per unit of product produced, as a smaller number of units must then carry as large an expense load as before. This illustrates the importance, from the standpoint of costs, of operating a farm at or near capacity."

"Investment mistakes are more costly than many others because they can not easily be corrected. If a farmer pays too much for his farm, his investment costs will be abnormally high as long as he owns it. If he constructs a $4,000 barn, when a $2,000 barn would have served his purpose, he will have excessive barn costs, year after year during the entire service life of the structure."

"This emphasizes the importance of a knowledge of investment values and the specific investment requirements of individual farms."

Determining Real or False Economies

"In working for greater economy, it is essential that the farm manager be able to distinguish between a real and a false saving. This can be done only through a careful estimate of the contribution to income, over a period of time, of each item of expenditure. Only if more is saved in expense than will be lost in income, can a contemplated cut in expense be designated as a real saving."

"For example, dropping dairy herd improvement work may result in a yearly expense reduction. The question to decide is what effect the dropping of this work will have on the present and future income from the dairy herd. If the estimated loss in live stock receipts due to a lowered efficiency in feeding and breeding is greater than the original saving, then it would obviously be a false economy."

"Substantial savings can be effected on many farms through the use of more home grown garden produce and farm cured meats. Why pay out money for products of this kind that can be produced much cheaper at home? The money saved from the family food budget can be used for the purchase of many things that will make the farm home a more comfortable and pleasant place to live."
